Dear Mr. Friedman -

In your last letter you asked me a question. I have finally been able to unscramble my notes. I have the answer you want. Unfortunately, since the information is classified, I have not been able to find any means of sending it to you.

Can you suggest a way?

Yours

Dear Dr. Conder:

I am quite sure that it will be all right to send your notes by registered mail, return receipt requested.

So many years have passed since the event in question that a downgrading to secret would be permissible and it is also permissible to send material of that classification as I've suggested above.

I will reimburse you for the postage and registry as soon as the material arrives.

Season's best greetings to you.

no reply
 ever received.

Sincerely,
 William F. Friedman

P.S. My secretary is gone now! So I have to do by hand - it's much faster than my typing.
